

Land & Water Conservation Summit

March 10, 2012

The Rhode Island Land and Water Partnership, comprised of over 40 land trusts, a dozen watershed groups and 24 conservation commissions, fosters learning and collaboration among conservation leaders throughout the state and region. Our hallmark event every year is the Land & Water Conservation Summit held on a Saturday in March. This day-long conference attracts over 300 of the state's conservation leaders for learning and networking. The Summit includes over 30 workshops, an inspirational keynote speaker and a wide array of exhibits for those attending to explore and learn from the Summit, creating a powerful learning and networking experience.

Advertizing at the Summit

The Land & Water Conservation Summit provides you with an unsurpassed opportunity to showcase your products and/or services to a prime audience who is passionate about the protection of our state's natural resources and long-term conservation for future generations. The Summit is a collaborative effort with many agencies and valued partners supporting and contributing to its success. One key part of the partnership is the many corporate, business and agency sponsors who support the Summit by advertizing in our program brochure or at one of the display tables. We hope you will participate in the upcoming Land & Water Conservation Summit with an ad or a display table.

For a very modest investment, you are not only helping us to support the environmental leaders of our communities, but you are also demonstrating to others your own commitment to protecting and preserving our state's vital natural resources; an investment in your own future and the future vitality of our home. Please take a few moments to review the various ad and display table opportunities. You will find that these ads are truly a great bargain and a wise investment.
